bio

After an eye emergency in Madagascar that literally changed his vision on life, Bart dedicated his life to improving the wellbeing of people by investing in leadership on a global scale. He is the co-founder of Groundwork Opportunities (GO), a nonprofit that began with a $1,000 investment and raised millions of dollars for local leaders implementing innovative solutions to craft a better and more just world. In previous lives, Bart earned a BA in Finance at the University of Illinois and then worked 8 years as a management consultant at Accenture and Slalom Consulting. He worked with senior leadership at 10+ Fortune 500 companies in both the USA and Europe.

Bart continues his passion as a social entrepreneur and worked with amazing people to help launch various for-purpose companies including GO, Start Something Good, and Button It Up Events. He has traveled to over 100 countries and Dell honored him as one of the 25 World Change-makers alongside Lauren Bush, Edward Norton, and Adam Braun.

When not working with tomorrow's change-makers today, Bart finds inspiration and gratitude by reflecting on the joy of just being, right here, right now.
